

ABSTRACT

In a reconfigurable communication network, a device may be equipped to support connecting to a single host using more than one communication protocol and more than one communication interface with the host.

DC2-519884v4